Dedication TO THOSE

A SHORT time ago they were with us—our brothers and our friends, our classmates and our sweethearts. We admired the ruggedness of their characters, laughed at their funny stories, and forgave their misdeeds. We worked and played with them, shared their loyalty and devotion, and together worshiped the same God.

When the call came for them to defend the liberties we hold so dear, they left our homes and churches, our classrooms and playgrounds. They left our offices and stores and factories. And then, after long months of arduous training, they faced the enemy for us. In strange and far distant places, whether on land or sea, or guiding their “cager craft thru footless halls of air,” they did not fail us. It has been theirs to serve so that we, and all peoples everywhere, might in the years to come live in a world unvexed by war and governed by the Prince of Peace.

Many former members of our student body have, in the years since Pearl Harbor, given their all in the service of their country. Once

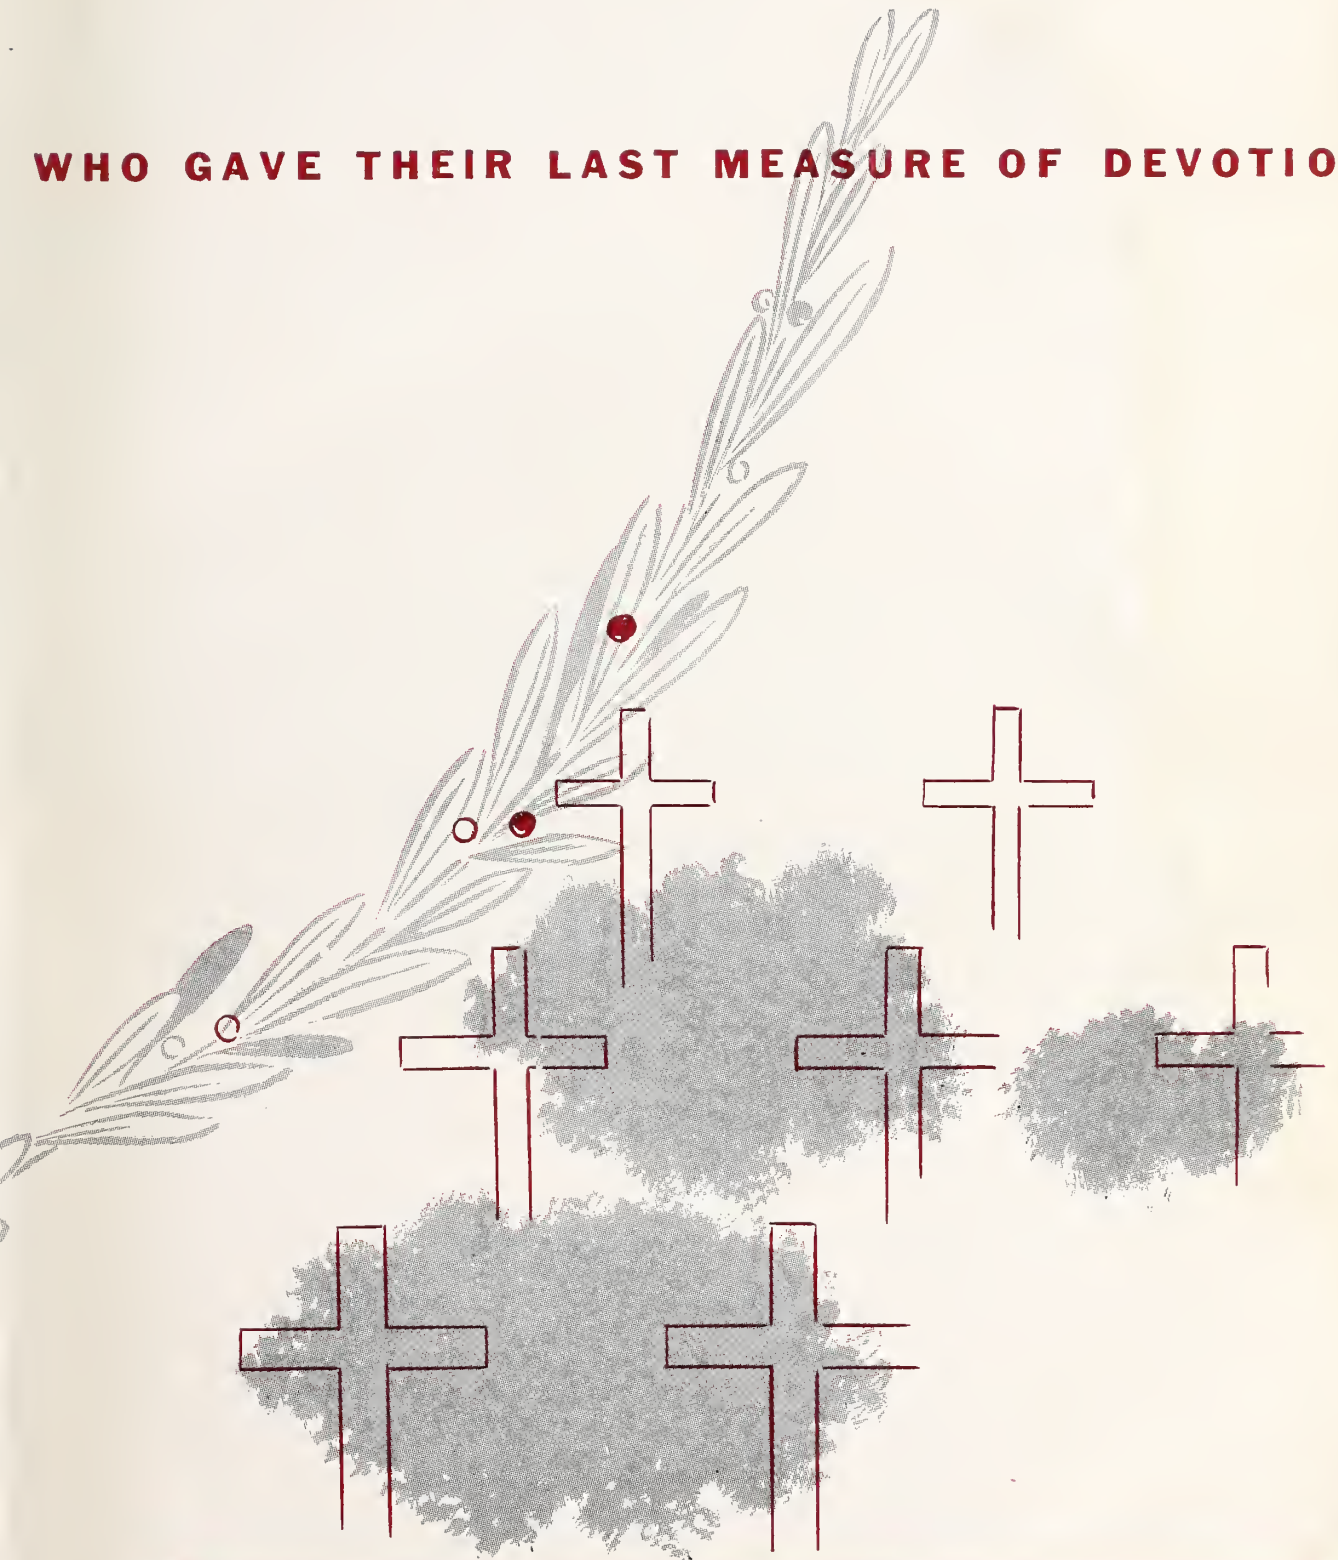

*Dawn was theirs,
And sunset, and the colors of the earth . . .
All this is ended.*

It is to the memory of these men, therefore, who in accordance with their high ideals of loyalty and service have made the supreme sacrifice, that we humbly and lovingly dedicate this book.

WHO GAVE THEIR LAST MEASURE OF DEVOTION

Assembled on the front lawn, the student body watches in mute reverence the lowering of the flag at half-mast in honor of our late President, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Roosevelt Memorial Service

THE opening of school on Friday, April 13, 1945, was marked by an unusual spirit of quietness. As the students entered the building that morning, their serious faces and muted voices gave evidence of the sorrow felt by everyone at the sudden and untimely death of our great and beloved President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, which had occurred the afternoon before at the "Little White House" in Warm Springs, Georgia.

In an impressive ceremony held on the front campus, the students and faculty of Senior High paid tribute to the life and memory of the man who, as President, had so courageously led his nation both in peace and in war toward the fulfilment of his dream for America — that we should continue to be "strong brothers in God's family of mankind."

As the years pass swiftly by, the pictures on these pages will help us recall the April morning when we stood in hushed silence with a feeling of intense loyalty in our hearts, watching the Stars and Stripes first raised to the top of the flag pole and then slowly lowered to half mast. As the sound of taps died away, we bowed in silent prayer both for our lost leader and for his successor.

Following this ceremony, a memorial service—one of the most beautiful and impressive ever conducted in this school—was held in the auditorium. The musical selections consisted of "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Bronson Matney, and the two hymns, "Beautiful Savior" and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," by the a cappella choir. Dr. F. L. Conrad, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, after reading several comforting passages from the Bible, spoke on the text, "Give honor to whom honor is due." Referring to the statement made by the President some months ago that "no generation, no nation has ever undergone so great a test as our own," the speaker continued, "No other president, no other statesman, no other American has had upon him so many burdens and tasks, and faced so many tests in a lifetime, as did Franklin D. Roosevelt . . . He made his mistakes, but he also made master strokes and he made history."

The last written words of President Roosevelt, which were to have been delivered in honor of Thomas Jefferson on Jefferson Day, are worthy both of the man they were intended to honor and of the man who was to give them utterance. The writer is dead, but his words live on:

If civilization is to survive, we must cultivate the science of human relationships—the ability of all peoples, of all kinds, to live together and work together in the same world at peace.

We go forward toward the greatest contribution that any generation of human beings can make in this world—the contribution of lasting peace. I ask you to keep up your faith.

The only limit to our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts of today. Let us move forward with strong and active faith.

In the upper left of the panel is pictured a small section of students paying homage to President Roosevelt; at lower left, the attaching of the flag to the halyard, and to the extreme right, in a hushed and hallowed manner, students filing from the campus into the auditorium for prayer.

PEMICAN, LONG AGO CARRIED BY INDIANS ON EXTENSIVE TREKS, WAS MADE AND TREATED BY A PROCESS WHICH REQUIRED SEVERAL HOURS OF COOKING, UNDERTAKEN AND COMPLETED MAINLY BY THE INDIAN SQUAW.

FEW HUNDRED years ago, tribes of American Indians lived and died here where our high school now stands. At certain seasons of the year, however, necessity and their own warlike spirit drove them afar in search of wild game and adventure. On these excursions they carried with them choice morsels of the lean dried meat of the bison, carefully treated to form a special and highly prized food called pemican. The etching on this page portrays the Indian squaw engaged in making pemican, while the lazy chief, smoking his pipe, looks on indifferently.

In recent years this word pemican has been given a new meaning, that of information or thought condensed within a small compass; in other words, a digest or summary of events. Thus, from the two different interpretations of the word we have derived the meaning and the purpose of our book. Its name, THE PEMICAN, is suggestive of the Bison, symbol of the High School; and the book itself is intended to summarize a year of life at Senior High, compressing within a small compass choice bits of an eventful nine months.

The theme chosen, that of student service to the school, is suggestive of the self-sacrificing services our fighting men and women are today rendering to our beloved country, both at home and in other lands.

Our students on the home front have nobly and faithfully served the school this year. Foremost among them are Frank Thacker and Eldora Haworth, president and vice-president of the Student Council; Jacksie Miller and Virginia Forward, editors, respectively, of the PEMICAN and the POINTER, and the staff members of both publications; all class and club officers; the War Bond chairman, Jackie Aldridge, and her assistant, Doris Alverson; the booth boys, Charles Idol, Hoy Lec Fesperman, Floyd Ennis, Robert Cain, Ray Rook, and Colin Sherrill; the assistants in the cafeteria, the offices, and the library; the home room and study hall officers; the custodian of the flag; the debating teams and the casts of both senior and junior plays; and, finally, all the members of the student body who, though unnamed, yet day by day illustrate the theme of our annual—student service to the school.

MR. CARROLL

A SCHOLARLY, sociable person, easily accessible to all people, Mr. Charles F. Carroll, our superintendent, is most widely recognized for his talent as a public speaker. His careful planning and promotion of numerous educational and civic activities has extended his influence to many walks of life. Under his administration not only has the high school plant been enlarged but the curriculum has been expanded to include additional vocational and commercial subjects. The music department, discontinued during the depression, was reestablished in 1937-38 on a broader basis; academic offerings were strengthened; and the school was readmitted to the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Mr. Carroll likes his home life, and nothing suits him better after a hard day at the office than a good book and his favorite pipe. Mr. Carroll is also a victory garden enthusiast and has even tried raising chickens. He enjoys reminiscing of college days when he was varsity man in certain sports, and he frequently recalls incidents that occurred while he was a pitcher in league baseball. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll have one son, Charles, Jr., who is now on active duty with the Navy in the South Pacific.

MR. WHITLEY

OUR principal, Mr. Dan P. Whitley, has the interests of the high school students close to his heart, and he gives generously of his time to any who wish to confer with him. His remarkable memory, clear thinking, and ability to see through a situation are assets to a man in his position. Our smoothly running organization is a tribute to his ability and rightly places him in an enviable position among North Carolina high school principals. His interest in audio-visual aids to instruction has resulted in the installation and use of much equipment of this type. His exact knowledge of all branches of the armed services, which has enabled him to advise young men concerning their military opportunities, is understandable in view of the fact that his two sons are officers in the United States Navy and veterans of campaigns in the Pacific. He is an active Scout Leader, a lover of sports, and a talented amateur photographer. For recreation he turns to the enjoyment of his home and little daughter, Irene.

A general view of the High School as it appeared during lunch periods.

Reminiscences

Some of the treasured moments that we shared at High Point High School and the various features of our life that brought us joy are pictured on these two pages. They should have the power of recalling past experiences and refreshing them in our minds.

"The mill will never grind again with waters that have passed."

*H*IGH POINT Senior High—Our School—What has it meant to us? There has been study—of necessity—but this has been well peppered with good times. What a life! We arrive at school in cars or model T's, on bicycles or in buses. The more athletic, full of energy — “hoof it.”

As the crowd gathers, the buzz of the conversationalists strengthens until the sound of the gong sends all scurrying to lockers and home rooms. Presently a voice, friendly and familiar, comes over the address system: “Here are your morning announcements.” After that, the work of the home room begins with devotionals conducted by one of the students.

During the following ten or fifteen minutes, special announcements are made by various committee chairmen, possibly fees are collected and receipted for; sometimes tickets are sold or collections taken up; the library representative daily calls for books to be returned; and once in every six weeks, reports are given out.

When the gong rings at nine o'clock, classes change. There is a considerable hubbub between classes. At twelve and at one, lunch periods begin, and each time a hungry line lengthens down the corridor. Afternoon classes are followed by various activities or eighth periods—voluntary or otherwise—which detain a considerable number of pupils until later in the afternoon. Sometimes at night the lights flash on and various groups gather to practice—choir, band, or play casts.

Now for the sidelines. There are plays like this year's "Spring Green" and "Smilin' Through" which we shall long remember—and assembly programs, both entertaining and educational. There have been concerts at night and dances and parties. History has been in the making, and we have listened to radio reports of momentous events. Now, all this is over. That glorious school year of 1944-45 lingers only in memory. Hundreds will not return next year, but they will join other graduates in paying tribute to our dear Alma Mater—HPHS.

Our School

Dean Mendenhall smiles reassuringly as she looks up pupil's record.

SYMPATHETIC understanding and a completely impartial approach to all questions are foremost among the traits of "Our Dean," Miss Anna Mendenhall, whom we have learned to love because of her service to us. Her office, one of the busiest but certainly the quietest in the building, is the scene of many conferences, for faculty, students, and parents all go to her just "to talk things over" and get advice. Miss Mendenhall's chief interest lies in her guidance and personnel work and she is happy when she can help people make satisfactory personality and social adjustments.

While the Dean is holding conferences in her private office, in an adjoining office her student assistants look after the two daily attendance bulletins, give first aid services, and attend to admissions to the four-bed clinic. Assistants for 1944-45 have been Betty Griffith, Helen Garrett, Elizabeth Hunsueker, Nancy Black, Melba Brown, Lyda Meredith, Patsy Gadd, Dorothy Clodfelter, Gladys Osborne, Cornelia Hodgkin, Helen Davis, Barbara Burton, Mary McMullan, and Jeanne Teague.

Office girls typify any period of school day in clinic.

Hard-working school secretary, Mrs. Jackson, expresses ideas on PEMICAN expenditures to photographer.

THE hub of high school life, from which radiates the business affairs, the distribution of supplies, and regular secretarial and clerical work, is the general office. Any student who has ever attended High Point High is acquainted with the genial atmosphere maintained there under all circumstances by our efficient secretary, Mrs. Johnsie Oakes Jackson.

Among Mrs. Jackson's most important duties are accounting, filing, typing, and sending out records. Foremost among these duties at present is the wartime necessity of mailing out transcripts for boys who have entered specialized training programs of the armed forces.

Mrs. Jackson has had this year an efficient staff of student assistants: Lyna Jane Davis, Betty Ann Johnson, Pat Padgett, Jane Rhodes, Estelle Scott, Diane Snyder, and Frances Ward. This group is assigned, in addition to regular work by periods, definite duties. Every girl, by rotation, remains after school for a week at a time to bring the day's work to a finish and to close the office. As helping in the general office is an extra-curricular activity, only students whose scholarship is average or above are permitted to give their time for this purpose.

Evaluation Committee

From left to right, seated: representing the State Department of Public Instruction, Dr. J. Henry Highsmith; Mrs. Mary P. Douglas; Miss Ella S. Barrett; Superintendent G. H. Arnold, Thomasville; and Mr. A. B. Combs, also State Department, standing: Superintendent Charles F. Carroll and Dean Miss Anna Mendenhall, High Point; Miss Julie Groves, Boyden High School, Salisbury; Dr. J. R. Ludington, N. C. State College; Mr. G. W. Coggin, State Department; and Principal D. P. Whitley, High Point.

DR. J. HENRY HIGHSMITH, Director of the Division of Instructional Service in North Carolina, in a letter recently received by Mr. D. P. Whitley, Principal of High Point High School, made the following statements concerning the evaluation of the local school:

"In the evaluation of the High Point High School by the visiting committee, an attempt was made to get an answer to the question—what is a good high school? To arrive at an answer to this question the committee used the Evaluative Criteria worked out in the Cooperative Study of Secondary School Standards . . .

"The evaluation of the educational program included curriculum and courses of study, pupil activity program, library service, guidance service, instruction and outcomes of the educational program. Due consideration was given to the school staff, school plant, and school administration . . .

"As a result of the three days spent in the school on this evaluation, suggestions were made with reference to improvements which might be made to the advantage of the boys and girls in the school. The Evaluative Criteria show that the High Point High School is a good school and that it can be made better by carrying out some of the suggestions which grew out of a study of the situation by the Superintendent, Principal, teachers and students, and by the visiting committee.

"It was a very pleasant experience for the visiting committee and it is hoped that it was stimulating and valuable to the school."

THE total enrollment at Senior High during the past nine months has been something over one thousand pupils. At present there is a freshman class of one hundred and sixty-seven; an unusually large sophomore group of about three hundred and fifty; a small junior class numbering one hundred and fifty; and a senior class of two hundred and forty-nine.

The class of '48 has brought in new material in the form of eager, hard-working students. Second-year students participate uncomplainingly in high school activities, yet, owing to the fact that they are underclassmen, they receive little credit for what they do. Tradition has placed the juniors in heaven, since freshman uncertainties and sophomore follies have passed away. Third year life brings membership in scholastic organizations to some, and to all opportunity for unselfish labor and achievement in studies.

The annual Prom provides pleasure for both juniors and seniors. As the fourth year is the most difficult, the most wonderful, and the most envied, aren't our seniors justified in exclaiming confidently to the lower classmen, "Well, when you've been here four years . . ." The culmination of a high school career, a certain amount of independence, and a formulating of plans for the future take place during our last year. As there is no class above us to be regarded with awe, we try hard to grow accustomed to being regarded in this manner.

From the first year to the last, our high school life is characterized by enjoyment and hard work, and by intellectual as well as physical growth. In the past few years the achievements of members of these classes presented on the following pages have been recognized by civic organizations and by branches of the armed forces.

Classes

YEARS spent pursuing the fundamentals of a progressive education, the thrill of sports, and the joys of social life, have left lasting impressions upon the pages of memory as well as upon the pages of this the first PEMICAN.

Cooperation is the word that tells why the class of '45 has so successfully achieved the goal that fate seemingly set for it. Sponsoring the first junior play, and publishing the first annual are typical evidences of the inner yearnings of a class that would not yield in face of hard work, lack of time, or financial barriers until the task was accomplished.

The class owes part of its progress to the efficient and capable leadership of all its presidents, from the freshman class through the senior. As freshmen, they were led by J. L. Bull; as sophomores, by Bob Allred; as juniors, by Wiley Clary; and as seniors, by Bronson Matney. The class acknowledges with gratitude the splendid work done by the senior adviser, Mr. Ralph Vance, which has greatly aided in making the class of '45 "one of the unforgettable classes" in the history of High Point High.

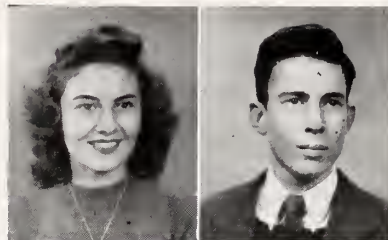

Talented mascots, "Bunky" Gibson and Brenda Coffey, shake hands like true friends, and then smile sweetly for our camera man.

Junior classmen are always fortunate individuals because they have a number of important things to do in school, and because they are almost at the "top of the peak," next to seniors. The juniors of '45, besides being fortunate enough to have the opportunities heretofore mentioned, distinguished themselves as the class that aided in beginning an annual at Senior High. For that, they should long be remembered.

Much credit for the successful year of this class is due to their capable supervisor, Miss Elizabeth Lindsay, and their cooperative president, Jeanne Teague. Jeanne proved to be a highly efficient pilot in guiding her class onward, with the help of vice president, Charles Mann; secretary, Betty Jo Beeson; and treasurer, Betty Auman.

The juniors of '45 constituted a cooperative, progressive class of 151 individuals who competed with seniors whenever possible. It was these juniors who began the Sophomore-Freshman Prom; who put up such a wonderful slate of candidates for Student Council President; and who first elected a band member, Bob Hauser, as Student Council President. Equipped with brains, music, athletics, and other requirements that insure success, it should be their destiny to attain great things next year when they hold the "governing hand".

Marking a year of achievement and progress, the sophomore class of 1944-45 has advanced socially, academically, and financially. As has become a precedent, the annual Sophomore-Freshman Prom was given in honor of the underclassmen. Funds for this occasion were obtained by sponsoring a magazine campaign.

This class, composed of over 350 members, has been one of the largest and most active in the colorful history of High Point High School. Members of the class attribute their current success to the capable and constructive guidance of Mrs. Flossie Shaw, class adviser, to Miss Mary Elizabeth Cox, who directed the magazine campaign, and to their energetic president, James Johnson.

FRESHMAN CLASS

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

Edward Silver, as president, has headed the small freshman class of this year. Associated with him have been Judson Ruth as vice-president and Doris Stamey as secretary and treasurer. Virginia Delappe and Raymond Herndon have served as representatives to the Upper House; and Miss Louise Hunter, as adviser, has directed the activities of the class.

In spite of its lack of numbers, the freshman class has demonstrated a spirit of genuine loyalty and cooperation in helping to start the annual and in carrying out the regular high school programs. Although so far the members of this group have had little opportunity to show their ability, they are convinced that during the next three years they will prove that they possess all the requirements for good leaders and followers.

THE annals of High Point High fail to reveal many more successful and progressive years than this one has been in the field of athletics. Even with some of their best men in the armed service, football, basketball, track, and baseball teams have done reasonably well in bringing home victories for their Alma Mater.

With the opening of school in the fall began the favorite sport of our institution—football. Hundreds of spectators turned out in pleasant, rainy, or freezing weather for both home and out-of-town games to witness the undaunted courage and splendid fighting spirit of our Black Bison varsity.

Following the football season came basketball. High Point scored high in the majority of these games, whether played locally or out of town. In the spring, after the basketball season was over, the baseball and track seasons began and ended, as did the school year, in a worthwhile and memorable manner.

The recollection of some of the games played this past season will probably linger for many years in the minds of the high school sports fans. Memory will bring back to them scenes from the past—our triumphant football team, the band parading down the field, led by the high-stepping drum major and the majorettes. Cheer leaders and spectators again fill the air with “rahs”, the basketball squad wins point after point, baseball players sweat it out, and lithe tracksters travel down the home stretch at break-neck speed.

These are only some of the things which we associate with our adequate athletic department, the program of which is broad enough to meet the needs of the students of Senior High.

Athletics

Impressive events that occurred 'round our Alma Mater.

A reminder of how our coach looked when he became occasionally instructional.

SIMEON'S BIOGRAPHY

Mr. A. J. Simeon, better known by his associates as "Tony" and by his students as "Coach," has made a remarkable record since he joined the faculty here in 1937 as athletic director.

Mr. Simeon came to High Point High School from Kernersville in September of 1937, succeeding Wade Marlette. At Kernersville, Coach taught social science and physical education. His first experience at coaching however, came with his position in this school.

While he was a student at High Point College, Mr. Simeon participated in every available sport. After graduation, for a time he was connected with the University of North Carolina. Mr. Simeon excelled in the sport which he loved best while he was in college. He was an outstanding wrestler, and he was distinguished as an amateur after his school days in his home state of Pennsylvania, during 1928-29.

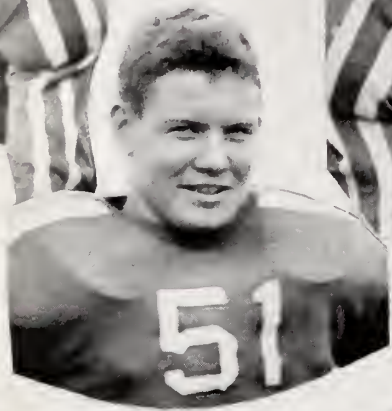

In coaching basketball here, Coach Simeon has shown real talent and knowledge of the game. During the eight years that he has served as head coach of this sport, he has turned out such outstanding players as Dick Hartley, Douglas Reid, and John Crowder. His record would be difficult to match, for during these same eight years, he has produced four Western Conference champion squads and one state winner. His teams have won 151 games and have lost only the amazingly small total of 37.

In addition to teaching the game of basketball, Mr. Simeon has coached baseball and wrestling and has assisted in football. Besides teaching six classes of physical education each day, Mr. Simeon is athletic director of the High Point YMCA.

Mr. Simeon's talents are by no means restricted to coaching. His shrewd financial viewpoint has proved an asset in managing the local athletic fund. In spite of his crowded schedule, he is active in the work of the First Methodist Church and a member of the local Civitan Club.

After coming to High Point, Coach Simeon married Miss Bessie Lee Hedrick. They have two children, James Ross and Carol Lee.

But can't get it up

Heading the 42 man squad, this year, was Terry "Footsie" Braswell, popular member of last year's team. Terry stepped into the spot when Bob Bollinger, who was elected to co-captain the eleven with him, entered Wake Forest College.

Robert "Hemo" Glaesner and Carl Anderson were the managers of the 1944-45 eleven.

FOOTBALL SEASON SUMMARY

With a new coach and seven regulars from last year's eleven, the High Point High School Black Bison football team's prospects appeared much brighter in comparison with last year's results, when they lost seven while winning only three.

Coach Homer McCoy, succeeding Tony Cernugel, who returned to his home state of Pennsylvania, started off the season with a bang, but something happened in the most crucial part of the season and the team lost the second half of their schedule without much show.

The Bison rolled up a 26-0 win over the Thomasville High School eleven to open the season and followed that impressive victory with a surprise win over a strong Durham High squad by a 20-7 score. In their first conference contest of the schedule, they romped all over a weak Burlington High eleven by a 39-0 score, their biggest offensive show of the year. In a rough drawn-out affair, the local squad ran roughshod over Lexington High for their fourth win. Boyden High of Salisbury marked the Bisons' fifth and last win of the season. They succeeded in running up three touchdowns for an 18-7 margin over the Yellow Jackets.

When a much improved Charlotte High School team came to this city for a game, the injury list of the local squad was piling up into dangerous numbers and the Central gridders walked off with a 20-0 triumph, the worst licking received by High Point. Gastonia, one of the best in many years, came through to take a hard-earned 13-6 win and Greensboro, High Point's toughest rival, chalked up another shutout by a 14-0 score over the Pointers. R. J. Reynolds of Winston-Salem topped the conference season by trouncing the locals by a 9-0 count in a game which saw Curtis McDonald, diminutive tailback, receive the most crucial injury of the year. He suffered a neck injury in the late stages of the contest.

Conditioning — the tough side of football.

Swift leg movement takes Abic over goal line.

Reidsville, playing here on December 1, the final of the card, the locals were again snowed under by a 27-13 score.

So ending one of the most disappointing seasons to the players and backers of the High Point Black Bison football machine. Five wins and an identical number of losses.

Homer McCoy, native of West Virginia, acted in capacity of head coach this year with the assistance of Mr. Simeon, director of athletics. The team was run on the field by Terry "Footsie" Braswell, 180-pound guard, playing his second year at that number one position.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

In a magnanimous celebration in honor of the 1944 football team of High Point High School here in December, 25 players were honored with football monograms and co-captains for next year's grid eleven were announced.

Donald Hooper, to be playing in his third year as a varsity linesman next year, was elected co-captain with Curt McDonald, also to be in his third season, was selected by the squad members to head the backfield as Hooper takes the leadership of the linesmen.

Bill Loyd, hefty 180-pound fullback, was elected by popular vote as the most valuable player on the squad for the season. He was presented with a special monogram designating this honor.

Distinguished members of High Point were present for the occasion with Coach Virgil Yow, director of athletics at High Point College delivering the main address of the evening. Wilson O. Weldon, pastor of the First Methodist Church in High Point, also spoke.

Dave Yow, outstanding follower of the team and of the High Point High School alumni, was the master of ceremonies.

Coach Homer McCoy made the letter presentations to the following boys: Terry Braswell, captain; Bill Brewer, Buddy Boyles, Graham Smith, Pete Armstrong, Tommy Kellam, Ray Delappc, Roger Hedrick, Bob Renfrow, Bill King, Hugh Gordon, Willard Hinkle, Joe Price, Donald Hooper, Curtis McDonald, Bill Loyd, Gene Holder, Marshall Newell, Tommy McGhec, Albert Thomas, Richard Reid, Wiley Clary, O. B. Levina, and Bob Stone. Robert Glaesner and Carl Anderson were presented monograms for their work as managers of the team.

B A S K E T B A L L

For the first time in three years, the High Point Black Bison basketball team was edged out for Western Conference Basketball honors as they dropped their first two conference games in the three years and Greensboro went ahead to win on the strength of their single league setback.

The 1945 version of the Black Bison won 19 games of a 21 game schedule and Coach Simeon declares this season among one of the most successful despite the loss of the conference banner.

In the opening game of the season, the locals rolled over a Spencer five by a top heavy 50-17 score with a similar score of 47-16 over Mount Airy, their second victim.

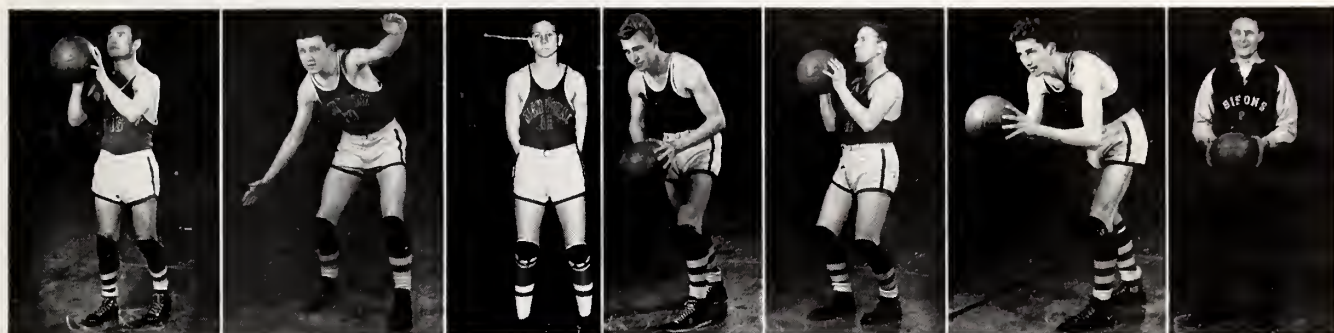

A string of 13 wins followed the Bisons into their first contest with their arch-rival of Greensboro High School. The Gate City five came through with a surprise victory over the Pointers by a 29-20 score. Salisbury followed with a 43-38 upset as High Point was lost to the versatile services of their high scoring pivot man. This disastrous loss forced the blue clad into the second spot of the conference for the remainder of the season, although they did come back with a sound 36-24 licking over Greensboro in their second game and a 48-39 win over Salisbury.

Girls' physical education class bucks slight wind, warm sun, and tough game of baseball.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Miss Mary Alice Thayer discovered teaching the girls physical education quite a task this year, yet she always seemed to enjoy it, for her friendly smile and sweetness were always on hand as she instructed. She began the school year with soccer. Then field hockey took the lead, until the coldness of the weather drove the classes into the gymnasium. There, basketball, volleyball, and such games were prominent until again, along came Spring—Tennis and Baseball included.

Tennis dominates these girls' free afternoons.

Ah! It's a high smacker, give me that ball.

The usual way a physical education class travels indoors — most all ways, with the instructor taking the lead.

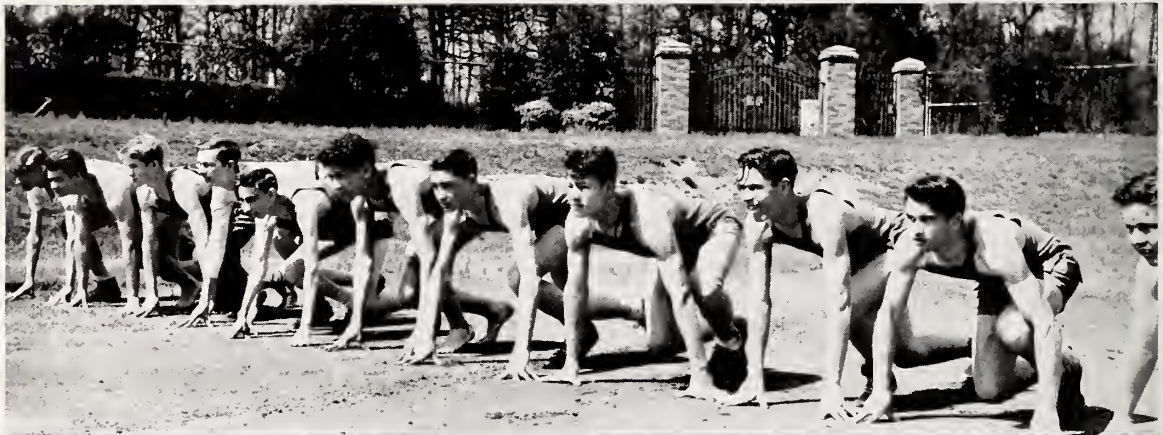

Boys' physical education classes employ swift running ability on the track and practice field.

BOYS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Boys' Physical Education classes during the past year have participated in a number of various athletics, with several intra-period games being played as a part of the intramural sports programs.

Some of the activities carried on by the teams include: Horseshoes, Softball, Tag Football, Tennis, Paddle Tennis, Track Events, Basketball, and Gymnastics.

At top, tracksters get ready for the takeoff; at bottom, one class demonstrates various types of tumbling exercises.

Drat the cameraman. The coach won't like this.

He swings, and it's a homer.

Get ready—all set—well, here comes the ball.

Shirts peel off as blazing sun becomes hotter.

TENNIS AND GOLF

Due to a lack of coaches this year, the High Point High School was forced to drop Tennis for the time being until a coach could be secured. Winston-Salem netters came through to take the state laurels in this sport.

The Black Bison golf squad headed by Aaron Rice came in fifth in the state matches held on the Emerywood Country Club course here May 10 and 11. The foursome of Winston-Salem also won this event, coming in nine strokes ahead of Charlotte High School which barely edged Greensboro High for second honors. Durham came in fourth behind Greensboro, and High Point followed the Durham team.

Charlotte contributed the top golfer of the tournament with young Buddy Harris carding a low of 153 for the 36 hole play. Aaron Rice of High Point scored a 155 for fifth place.

TRACK TEAM

High Point's track team this year, as in the past two years, failed to exhibit real talent.

Coaches Homer McCoy and J. J. Ellington turned up several first year track men, but their reserves were 1 setback when the meets rolled around.

In the first meet of the year, the Bisons went down in third place in a triangular meet at Winston-Salem. Greensboro and Winston-Salem finished in that order.

The Western Conference meet held on the athletic field here was the same story with High Point dropping back with only a few points compared with the points captured by Greensboro, Charlotte, and R. J. Reynolds.

In the state meet at Chapel Hill, Raleigh came out on top with the High Point team taking only one point, a fourth place earned by Hugh Gordon, top 440 man of the Western Conference.

Other members of the team include: Terry Braswell, Bill Loyd, Eugene Bray, Harry Cramer, Dwight Carroll, Wiley Clary, Paul Brewer, Bill Campbell, Bill Clinard, Bill Younger, Bobby Lee, Horace Davis, and Edgar Turner.

While on the subject of baseball, it would only be appropriate for us to mention the number of diamond stars that have left this high school and entered the field of professional baseball and made good.

Melvin Walker, the latest High Point High

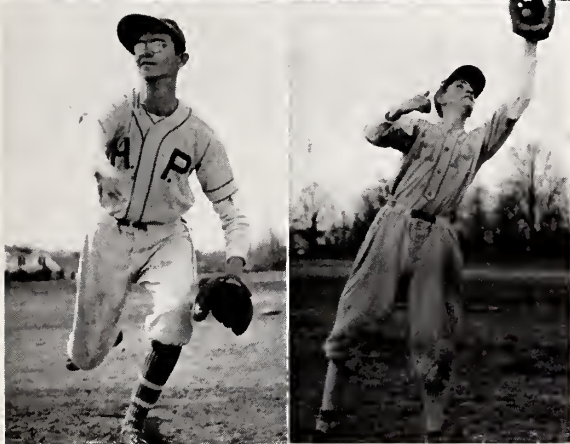

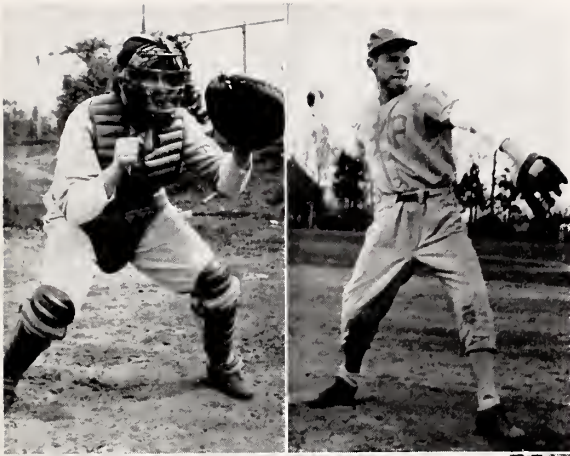

Baseball managers, Harris and Armstrong, smile to prove that tilt is going successfully.

School contribution to professional baseball left this institution only a year ago, but the progress that he has made throws a great deal of light on the baseball knowledge that he has gained under the High Point coaching. Melvin is now playing short stop for a large city representative team in the Ohio State and with his ability, he has promise of advancing to a higher bracket and maybe the major leagues, the goal of every baseball player, in short time.

The very mention of Broadus Culler brings to the minds of individuals baseball in its best form. Broadus has reached the top rung in the baseball climb, now playing short stop for the Boston Braves in the National League, one of the two highest leagues of the game. Broadus is a baseball official of this state and makes his home in this city during the winter. He is a member of the class of 1931.

Myron Hayworth experienced his greatest thrill last year when the team on which he played and starred so regularly won the championship in its league. The St. Louis Browns played in the World Series with this High Point boy holding down the tough catcher's position.

Thus naming only a few of the players that have succeeded in the great American game from this school, we wish the greater number of High Point baseball players success after their stretch in the Army which called a postponement to their careers.

The High Point Black Bison baseball team experienced a hectic and mediocre season this year, although it was an improvement over the last. This year's nine, behind the captaincy of Abie Thomas and Donald Hooper, won 9 games while losing 5.

Bison and the impressive victory revealed the power the locals had when they could cut loose.

In their second game, they were handcuffed by a much older and experienced team of Oak Ridge Military Institute by a 9-1 score.

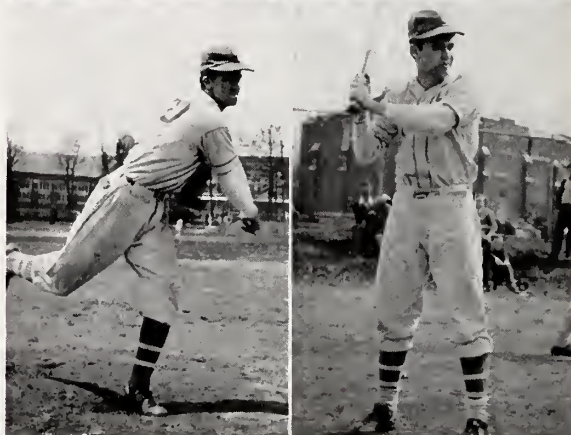

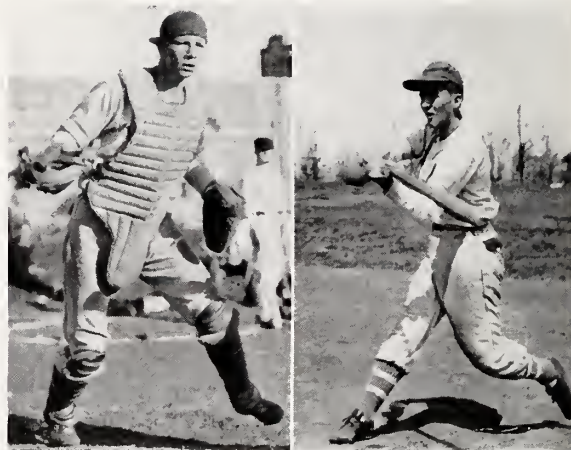

A Jamestown nine came here for their third game and much different from last year, when the small rural school beat the Pointers, they absorbed an 18-2 setback at the hands of the locals.

Three more wins, a 13-1 decision over Trinity, a 12-7 win over Asheboro, and a 11-6 victory over Thomasville gave High Point an edge in the won-lost standings when the same Oak Ridge team squeezed the locals out by an 8-7 in their return meet. Thomasville, Greensboro, and Burlington, the latter two being conference battles, went down before the Bison in their next trio of games 8-6, 4-3, and 13-3 respectively, before a strong R. J. Reynolds High of Winston-Salem succeeded in handing the locals their third defeat by a 9-3 score. In the next game played on the local field, High Point gave the same team quite a scare before succumbing by a 12-11 count. A return meet with Greensboro, one team they had beaten once before, went in a different direction with Greensboro taking a lopsided 18-5 win.

High Point wound up their 1944-45 sports program with a 20-3 shellacking of a Burlington team in their last game.

Members of this year's team were Donald Hooper, catcher; Albert Thomas, pitcher and outfielder; Ray Delappe, first baseman; Curt

THE enthusiastic spirit of High Point High, directed into useful channels, functions in the form of extra-curricular activities. Each activity, in its own way, aids in the development of the pupil. First of all, there are organizations whose high standards for membership encourage not only scholastic attainment, but also qualities of leadership and service. Other clubs recognize special aptitudes and talents in individual students.

Student Council work furnishes invaluable experience to those fortunate enough to participate in it. Other groups, such as the POINTER and PEMICAN staffs, the members of the annual play casts and of the Prom committees, in addition to rendering distinctive service to the school, gain much personally through their united efforts in a common cause.

The "Y" organizations, which draw their members from the student body, function through social events and through cooperative effort in wartime drives and campaigns. The old adage of all work and no play does not apply in this school, for each year brings the blast of trumpets and the swish of evening gowns — the Proms which provide the social highlights of school life.

All these different activities, both academic and recreational, add interest to school life and play an important part in the development of the well-rounded boy and girl.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

One of the highest honors which can be bestowed upon a Junior or Senior in high school is election into membership in the National Honor Society.

This organization was founded in 1921 by the National Association of Secondary-School Principals. Since that time, secondary school administrators throughout the United States have approved its objectives and have set up more than twenty-five hundred local chapters in their schools.

The Society was originally established to stimulate the scholarship, leadership, service, and character of the students in the schools of this country, and thus each chapter selects as members, those students who are most outstanding in these four qualities. Its four-fold aim is to encourage high scholarship, to bear forward the searching light of truth, to lead that others may follow in the light, and to serve and help others to serve.

The members of the National Honor Society strive each year to contribute something of real and permanent value to the school, and by these annual contributions they hope to carry on the ideals of the organization. The members for this year are Jackie Aldridge, Margaret Barrier, Jane Blair, Francis Booze, Terry Braswell, Barbara Burton, Wiley Clary, Bob Curry, Lyna Jane Davis, Donald Embler, Virginia Forward, Patsy Gadd, Sybil Garner, Natt Harrison, Eldora Haworth, Walter Hester, Edith Holmes, Patricia Hubbard, Evelyn Hutton, Mildred Jester, Leonard Kaplan, Joanne Loffin, Harold McGee, Bronson Matney, Robert Melton, Lyda Meredith, Jacksie Miller, Bill Mitchell, Percy Payne, Bill Raper, Jane Rhodes, Estelle Scott, Graham Smith, Henri Stout, Carolina Rozzelle, Nell Sicheloff, Jeanne Teague, Frank Thacker, Mary Elizabeth Vaughan, Earl Wagoner, Frances Ward, Roy Watts, and John Wells.

Under the direction of its sponsor, Mrs. Rogers, the organization this year undertook and completed three major projects. The first was the scrap paper drive; the second, the sale of personal cards to seniors; the third, the presentation of the National Honor Society Service Award to Jacksie Miller who had, during her high school years, contributed most unselfishly of her time and talent to the advantage of the student body. The local chapter also undertook, as an added project, the presentation of a miniature Service Award to the winner.

T H E P E M I C A N

For the first time in its long history, this school can claim as its own an annual—THE PEMICAN. Brought out by the Class of 1945 under the direction of the editor-in-chief, eight associate editors, the business manager, and the faculty adviser, this book makes its debut in war time. It has encountered all sorts of obstacles along the way; nevertheless it has come rolling off the press in time for a legal "Yearbook Day."

After working frantically during the last months of 1944 to obtain permission from our principal, superintendent, school board, and faculty to have an annual, we now present the first edition of THE PEMICAN.

The actual work did not begin until January, when the definitely green staff had become a trifle more educated to this type of work. The task has been accomplished, however, only by the countless sacrifices and energetic cooperation of the staff, with the necessary assistance of the adviser and the photographer, and by the valuable instructions of both engraver and printer.

We are proud to be the creators of the first PEMICAN!

UPPER HOUSE

The student council of Senior High consists of two houses. The Upper House is composed of one boy and one girl elected from each of the four classes, in addition to a president and a vice president of the student association, elected from the incoming senior class.

The present year has been one of important events for the student council. The cooperation between faculty, students, and council, and the improved attitude of the whole student body has served to stimulate the work of both houses of the council.

In the fall, this school was host to the North Carolina State Student Council Congress, attended by delegates from more than sixty other schools. This Congress will long be remembered by many Tar Heel students. Highlights of the event were an address by Dr. George Mauze of Winston-Salem, and, later in the evening, a banquet and dance at the country club.

Partly as a result of continued and determined effort exerted by the members of the Upper House, the first annual in this school, the PEMICAN, has made its appearance.

During the school year the Upper House sponsored certain assembly programs, the two most effective,

FRANK THACKER
President

being a concert rendered by the a cappella choir and a musical program presented by Mrs. Ernestine Strickland.

Through its two houses, the student council affects more students than any other one organization in the school.

Upper House in regular session, subject this time: the sale of pennants.

LOWER HOUSE

ELDORA HAWORTH
Vice President

A representative from each home room and the vice president of the student association, who presides over all meetings, constitute the membership of the Lower House.

Within the Lower House are several standing committees, among which are the following: Traffic, Fire Drill, Bulletin Board, Welcome, Lost and Found, and War Bond.

When the North Carolina State Student Council Congress was in session here in the fall, Lower House members served as guides and attended meetings. They also assisted in housing and entertaining delegates.

During the year 1944-45, Lower House members took an increasingly active interest in the affairs of the school. Perhaps the most successful project undertaken was an amateur show. This program was first given before the student body and again presented before the public under the sponsorship of the P. T. A. Later, it was carried to a neighboring town under the auspices of a Sunday School class.

Other outstanding projects undertaken by the Lower House were the sale of high school pennants, the sponsoring of a War Bond Rally, resulting in the sale of over $100,000 in Bonds and Stamps, and the sale of War Bonds and Stamps throughout the year.

Membership is based on creditable achievement, superior mentality, good character, and commendable attitude. Only juniors and seniors with an average of ninety or above are eligible for induction at the public ceremonies held each year.

Upon graduation, each member who has made an average of ninety-two or higher during his high school years is honored by having his name inscribed on a large silver plaque, displayed in the library.

Officers for 1945 were Estelle Scott, president; Patsy Gadd, vice president; Mildred Jester, secretary; and Eldora Haworth, treasurer. Other members were Margaret Parrier, Robinette Ballard, Blanchard Bonner, Barbara Burton, Ruby Drye, Louise Erickson, Sybil

Junior members eagerly face a new year of dramatic speech.

MASQUE AND GAVEL

Encouragement for better speech was emphasized by the Masque and Gavel National Honor Society this year. The founders of this society, believing that students who have developed and demonstrated oral excellence in everyday life situations in the class room, in the high school, and in the community, should be rewarded along with contest winners. Thus, developed talents, as well as superior talents are rewarded.

The objectives of Masque and Gavel are three fold: (1) to recognize and promote significant achievement in any area of speech in the high school; (2) to assist the student in raising his standards of speech; (3) to sponsor a better relationship between the high school and the community through a cooperative program with national service organizations, churches, and other recognized community groups.

A student is selected for recognition by Masque and Gavel because he has demonstrated growth as well as excellence in oral situations. He is not selected because he has performed a certain number of duties, or because he has won a certain number of contests. His intangible qualities, as well as his record of growth and excellence of performance, bring him the honor of becoming a member of Masque and Gavel.

Juniors and Seniors are recommended for membership by the teachers for whom they have shown

AS a junior organization of the Y. M. C. A., the Hi-Y Club is composed of high school boys who, having met the requirements for membership, are elected into the club. Meetings are held every Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. At these meetings, the chaplain reads a passage of Scripture, which is followed by a prayer. The purpose of the meetings is to discuss business and to participate in activities and social events. Outstanding citizens are frequently invited as guest speakers. Foremost among the activities of the club is participation in various forms of athletics, such as football, basketball, volleyball, and softball. The various teams compete with other local teams of the same age group in impromptu games and in scheduled contests. Swimming in the "Y" pool is a regular follow-up of the weekly meetings.

Since its founding, the purpose of the International Hi-Y club has been "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character." In order to become a member of the club, a boy's scholarship record must not be below average; he must practice clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean scholarship, and clean living; and he must be duly elected to membership by vote of the club. He is then inducted into the club according to the ritual prepared by the National Hi-Y Council. Two inductions are held each year; one, in the fall; the other, in the spring.

Social events, planned and carried out by the boys, are enjoyed each year. Among the events of the present year have been a social and dance in cooperation with the Girl Reserve Club, and a wiener roast and blanket party at the City Lake.

A state Hi-Y conference is held annually, at which representatives meet in order to discuss activities of the year and to hear special speakers, prominent in community, social, and religious affairs. Representatives are entertained in the homes of Hi-Y boys in the host city.

JUNIOR - SENIOR PROM

(Between Me and My Pillow)

All year, I have looked forward to this night and now it is almost over. I did get the date I wanted. I was so afraid that he was going to ask someone else. We departed promptly after he came by, all my curls were in just the right place, at least I hoped they were. Going past the registration desk, we entered the gymnasium by way of a formal receiving line. I can't forget the smiles and welcomes, the firm handshakes of Mr. Whitley and Mr. Carroll. By now several solo girls were eyeing my date rather enviously, so I steered him to a beautiful love seat that occupied a shaded corner. (It seemed that all the best garden furniture in town had been borrowed for this dance.) Never before have I seen a gymnasium so beautifully decorated. It was an old-fashioned rose garden with roses and trellises everywhere. Dreamily we danced the hours away. There were plenty of breaks, and I talked with some boys whom I had never thought of before. A couple of them seemed rather nice, too. I can't even tell a pillow all the wonderful things that happened to me. I really hope that some of the special wishes we made, as we tossed our coins into that quaint old wishing well, will some day come true. (Wonder what he wished for; he never did tell me.)

My eyes still "see spots" when I recall how bright the flashes were when Mr. Morris caught us in a picture and, which reminds me, I wonder if the cleaner will get all the spots out of my evening gown? If not, they will be little secret reminders of the fleeting moments that I'll never forget. Even now in the wee hours, the whole thing is like a dream. The beautiful punch bowls, the rhythm of the orchestra, saying goodbyes, the hot dogs and coke, the "long way home", prolonged goodnights, and now, my pillow, it's just you and I. Gosh! Seems like I'll never go to sleep again. What a night! After all, tomorrow is Saturday, and I can sleep late as I please.

Upper left: the inevitable beginning of proms: the line of chaperons . . . upper right, punch bowl and ow-la-la grouped around it . . . lower left: "You're in my arms and it's Heaven" . . .

Serenaders play "Stardust" and smooth dancing resumes.

With red, white, and blue streamers floating overhead, we entered the gymnasium and proceeded to meet James Johnson, our sophomore president, his date, Mr. and Mrs. Whitley, and the long line of chaperons. We were impressed by the simple, yet attractive, decorations for the dance. Green cedars lined the walls, and here and there were placed tables surrounded by chairs. At the far corner of the room stood a large and almost lifelike reproduction of the Statue of Liberty, made by Billie Ann Kester.

Beyond the statue sat the "Serenaders." Suddenly they began playing their opening number. Bob Renfrow, master of ceremonies, stepped to the microphone, and the Sophomore-Freshman Prom then got under way.

This event thrilled us greatly. The soft lights, the smooth music, the cool refreshments, and the cheerful greetings from hundreds of people thronging the gym, part dancing and the rest gaily chatting in corners, were enjoyable beyond expression. Best of all, though, was the exciting Conga line formed about ten o'clock that evening. The dancing continued until the hands of the clock pointed to twelve. Regretfully we realized that our prom for this year was now an event of the past.

Hmm-m-m! Are we thirsty!

Band major, Ralph Edwards, and director, Henry Hodgin.

With its high-stepping drum major and its majorettes leading the procession, the high school band during 1944-45 made its usual glorious appearance at all football games, as well as on other occasions, generally amid loud cheers from its audience, the students and friends of H.P.H.S.

The band this year has consisted of fifty-four players, five majorettes, a drum major, and three color guards. Under the able direction of Mr. Henry Hodgin it has had an unusually busy and successful year.

Last fall the Forsyth County Fair Association sponsored at Winston-Salem a contest in which the High Point band competed with seven bands from the Piedmont section. High Point, in addition to taking first place, came away with a prize of $250 and another good mark to its credit.

During this spring the band has visited all of the elementary schools of the city and William Penn High, presenting programs designed both to entertain the younger pupils and to interest them in the study of this type of music.

On May 18, the band was presented in concert at Senior High. This program included Sousa Marches, "Finlandia," and "Valse Triste" by Sibelius, selections from Cole Porter's "Oklahoma," and several popular numbers. Unique in band repertoires was a solo for drums with band accompaniment played by Jack King, and a clarinet concerto played by Clarence Hayes, showing how a band rehearsal may sometimes deteriorate.

On Armistice Day, the band participated in the dedication of a flagpole presented by the American Legion to the Chamber of Commerce and dedicated to all High Point boys in the Armed Forces. Afterwards, the students were honored with a barbecue lunch.

Curved backs, bended knees, jolly sparkling smiles typify our band major and majorettes.

Since last fall, the band has lost some of its members to the Armed Forces: Sonny Wagner and Rayford Misenheimer to the Navy, and Ralph Edwards to the Army.

THE A CAPPELLA CHOIR

The a cappella choir, which takes the place of the usual glee clubs in high school, was organized in the fall of 1940, under the direction of Mr. Carl G. N. Cronstedt, for the benefit of students desiring training in choral singing.

At the beginning of each school year, vocal tests are held for those who have registered for a unit of work in choral singing. From this group, the choir is selected. The present organization consists of fifty-two members, who practice one period each week. The officers for the 1945 choir were Glenn Bates, president; Bob Allred, vice president; Lee Smith, secretary; Clifford Shoaf, treasurer; and Robert Ellis, librarian.

It has been the custom of the choir to furnish the music for the Christmas program and for music week. The activities of this group, however, are not confined to the school alone, but are frequently enjoyed by the radio audience, and by the local churches and other organizations. The programs given by the choir extended throughout the term. Perhaps, the crowning achievement of the year is the music rendered during commencement exercises.

Owing to the nature of the services in which the a cappella choir participates, the type of music used is sacred. Included on the programs for this year have been the well-known anthems, "Heavenly Light," "Beautiful Saviour," and "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." The a cappella choir of Senior High has long been recognized for the fine spirit among its members. This year has been no exception to the rule, for each member has felt that it has been a real privilege to belong to such a splendid organization and to work with such highly-trained and gifted choral instructors as Mr. Cronstedt, and, previously, Mr. Emile Serposs. The high quality and the success of the choir have resulted from the faithfulness and the wonderful co-operation of the members.

John Ruskin once said, "When love and skill work together, expect a masterpiece." It seems evident that the choir performs with this saying in mind.

The Symphony Orchestra, reorganized eight years ago after having been discontinued for four years, under the efficient direction of Miss Virginia Frank has this year made for itself a splendid record. As a consequence of this, it has been in constant demand for both school and community programs.

This organization is recognized throughout the state as one of the outstanding school orchestras in the South. In the state contest festival, it won an Honor Rating of 1, having played in Class A for three consecutive years, 1940, 1941, 1942—the only high school orchestra in North Carolina to achieve such a record. No state festivals have been held since 1942 due to war time conditions, however, we are convinced that this high standard of excellence has been maintained.

In unison, the string section harmonizes on "Danube Waltz."

Many boys, called to enter various branches of the armed service, bade adieu to their high school chums during the course of the past year. The panel of service men given above does not include the entire group. These photographs were the only ones available at the time of publication. A number of the boys with sufficient units to their credit will receive diplomas with the remainder of the class. All honor to these our fellow students who have been doing so much for their country!

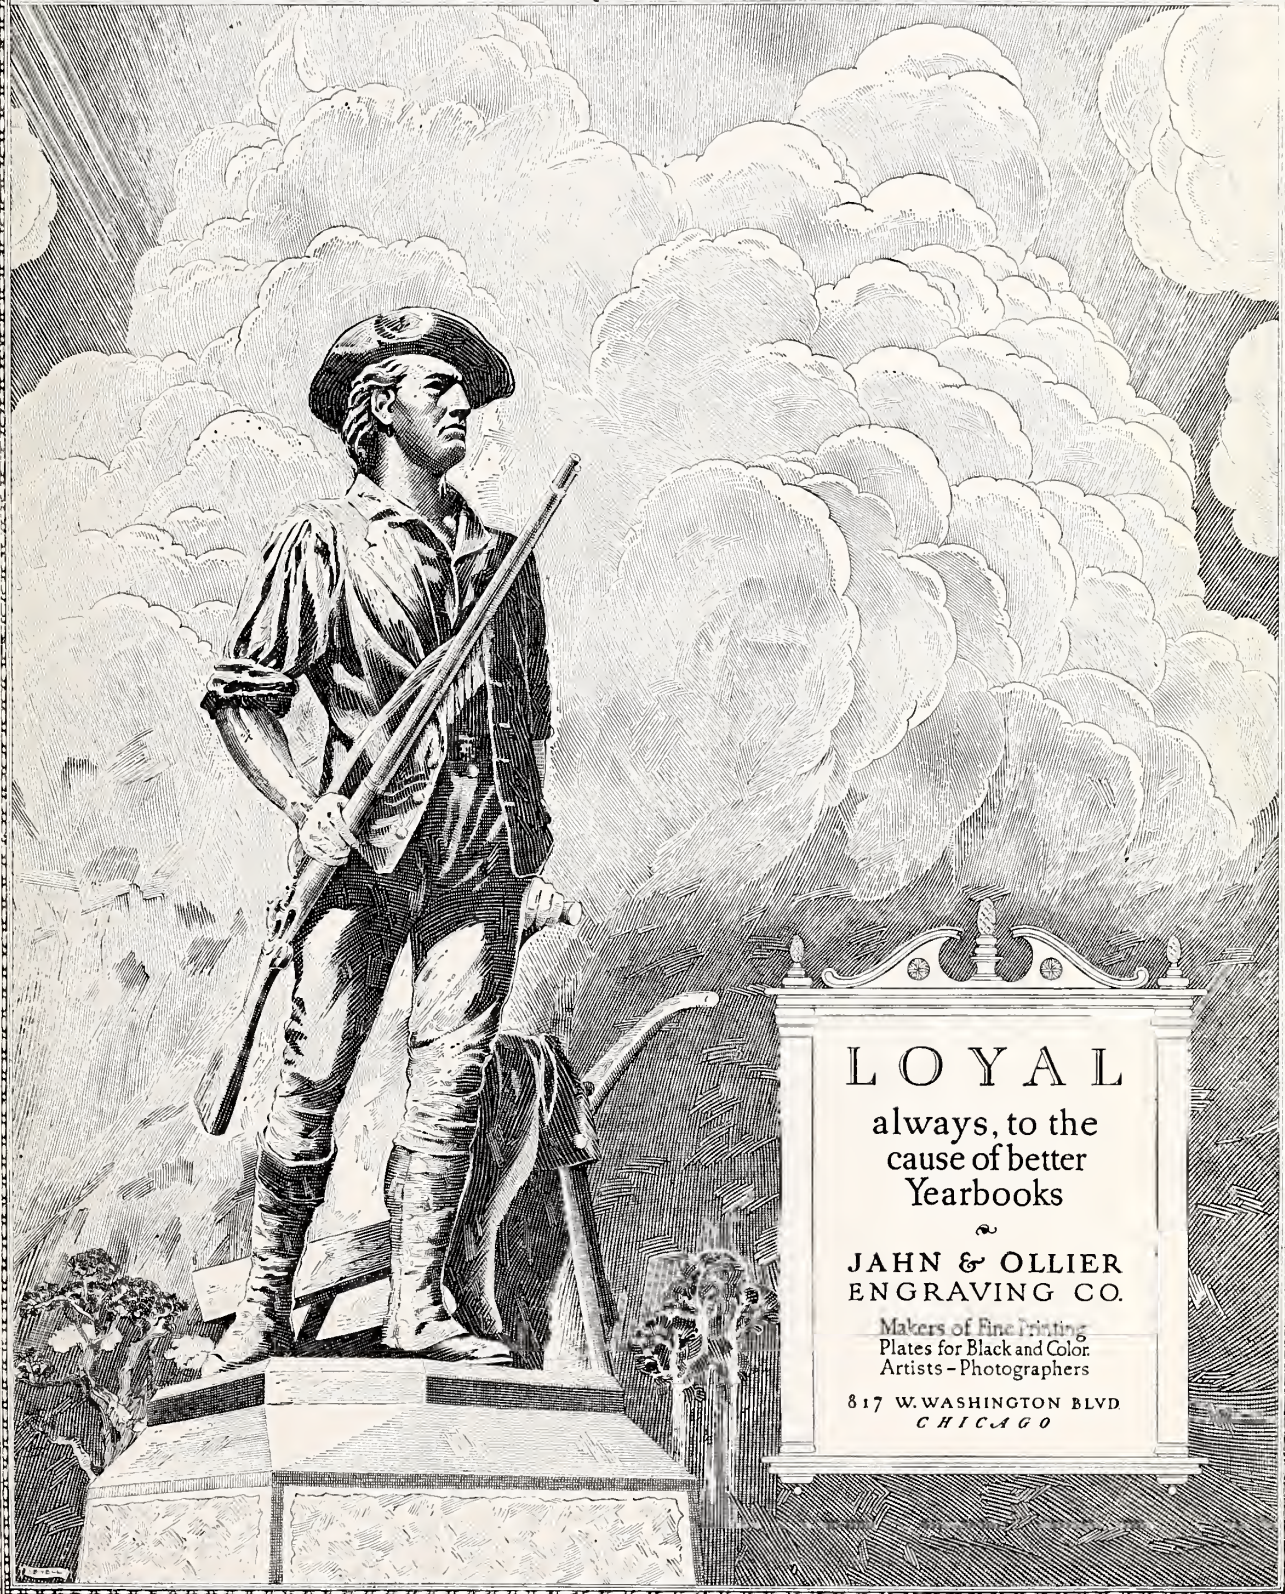

Appreciation

The staff chosen to make a yearbook can hardly be expected to accomplish its work without a considerable amount of additional help. Since in the publication of this annual we are greatly indebted both to amateurs in the work and to professionals, we have set aside this page for the purpose of expressing to various individuals and organizations our appreciation for their splendid contributions to the PEMICAN.

We are indeed grateful to Mr. Ralph Vance, without whose sacrifices and guidance this book would never have been; to Mr. Barry Morris, whose photographic skill is shown in the excellent quality of the pictures which make up a most important part of this publication; to Mr. Gordon Brightman of Jahn and Ollier Engraving for his assistance in initiating this project and for the fine engravings for which he is responsible; to Mr. Charles Pierce of the Hall Printing Company for his patience and his assistance in the production of the annual; to Mr. and Mrs. Emile Dodamead for putting aside other duties in order to give their attention to the junior and senior photographs; to Miss Muriel Bulwinkle for editing our copy; and to Mrs. C. H. Rhodes for her assistance in proof reading.

To the following high school students, also, we wish to express our thanks for all that they have done: Anne Steed, Bronson Matney, Patsy Gadd, Ruth Miller, Gena Brown, Graham Smith, Lawrence Leonard, Jimmy Malenkos, Mary Helen Collins, Betty Sue Short, Betty Anne Johnson, Betty Auman, Evelyn Hutton, Nell Siccloff, Sandy Jones, Leonard Kaplan, Lyna Jane Davis, Pat Padgett, Lyda Meredith, Newbern Combs, Eddie Tinsley, Walter Hester, James Johnson, James Hall, Dorothy Pilson, Bobby Allred, and Bob Curry.
